TABULA RASA: EXPANDING THE LIMITS OF YOUR VISUAL PRACTICE

CHIARA CAPODICI

Photography workshop organized by LABABUCH

CONTENT

A week-long guidance with Israel Ariño, Chiara Capodici and Clara Gassull Quer, focused on questioning the creative process, reconsidering our relationship with reality, and exploring each participant's visual practice.

Throughout the week, individual and collective photographic exercises and proposals will make us activate our sense of observation, interrogate our perception of reality, and challenge our way of seeing things. Participants can come and work on a project they are developing, but they are also invited to generate new images during the workshop.

Images and processes will take shape through conversations, viewings, and daily confrontations. The work will focus on pausing on the banal, on what we usually overlook, to later identify the essential and discard the unnecessary, based on previous material and what is generated during the week. We'll focus on enjoying and deepening the creative process, leaving behind the search for completed forms.

As every year, during the week, Leporello photobooks et al. will move to LaBabuch with a special selection of books curated by Chiara Capodici.

Set in LaBabuch, the workshop offers an environment that encourages both creative exploration and shared experiences in photography.
